9 December

Ardoe House Hotel, Aberdeen

Ensuring the UK's energy security – Today and into the future

Join us at the 2025 OEUK Subsurface and Wells Conference where we'll unite the wells and subsurface workstreams to drive innovation and collaboration across the UK Continental Shelf.

By bringing these disciplines together, we'll sharpen our focus on late-life asset strategies and tackle the challenges of unlocking a homegrown energy future - working more efficiently and effectively than ever before. This is a unique opportunity for geoscientists and well engineers to collaborate across oil & gas, carbon capture & storage, and geothermal.

What to expect:

- Insightful keynotes from regulators, industry leaders, and technical experts.
- Strategic discussions on the role of wells in the energy transition, with real-world success stories.
- Networking opportunities with over 100 delegates, including senior professionals, recent graduates, and early-career specialists.

Whether you're shaping policy, driving operations, or exploring new technologies, this conference is your platform to contribute to the UK's future energy security.

“As a start-up, every decision is weighed carefully, and while we know the importance of getting our name out there, I must admit, we were initially sceptical about the value of hosting a booth.

The OEUK team understood our start-up challenges and went out of their way to ensure we could participate in a way that worked for both of us. That understanding and support made all the difference, and I'm thrilled to report that the conference was a game-changer for SLP Bits.

Not only did we connect with a wide range of potential clients and industry leaders, but we are also celebrating our very first order with a new client, as a direct result of the conference!

Thank you once again to the OEUK team for your support and encouragement. We're looking forward to building on this momentum and hope to share more success stories in the near future. “
