The Event Explained

HSE
CONFERENCE

Working together with our members, we are a driving force supporting the UK to meet its energy security and net zero ambitions. Our innovative companies, people and communities add value to the UK economy.

At this conference we are taking inspiration from the wider OEUK scope, and will bring together people from across the industry to share experience, highlight innovation and explore the key question: what energises you about HSE today?

With a welcome return to in-person attendance, the two-day event will engage and inform industry, bringing together operators, contractors, supply chain, regulators and other stakeholders in the offshore energies sector to explore the challenges and opportunities facing industry in the health, safety and environmental topics that matter most to our members.

As well as keeping up to date with OEUK activities, our members want to share experience, ideas, and to hear how people throughout the offshore energy sector are innovating and driving improved performance across health, safety and environmental management.
